Lambert joins council, McAnally is re-elected

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Russell Lambert will be the new face among city councilmembers this term, and Beverly McAnally will retain her seat as mayor, Romulus voters decided Tuesday.

Incumbents who were re-elected are Noah Bergeron, Fred Junior Block, Randolph Gear, Ellis Pennington, Jimmie Raspberry and William Wadsworth.

In the mayor's race, Beverly McAnally defeated opponent Earl Champagne by a wide margin.

Running unopposed were City Clerk Linda Choate and Treasurer James Napiorkowski. Both received a strong show of support from the voters.

Unsuccessful in their bid for office were David Atkins, George Carpenter, Brooker Edwards, Elvera Fischer and John Lewkowicz.

Total votes cast were 4,292.

With the election behind them, city officials can now concentrate on the goals they discussed during their campaigns.

McAnally will embark upon her fourth term as mayor. She has announced plans to increase the city drug-prevention efforts. The mayor also said she wants community needs to come before the proposed expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

In the position of city clerk, Choate has served since 1983. She described her role within the city as a record keeper, one who helps the government run smoothly.

Napiorkowski will now begin his second term in office. He hopes to expand the services his office offers and to increase overall efficiency.

The newest member of city council, Lambert, has lived in Romulus 33 years. He resigned from the Romulus volunteer fire department to pursue his council seat. During his campaign, Lambert said the city is ready for some new faces.

Bergeron has been a city councilmember since 1981. He said he is concerned about maintaining quality development within the city and environment.

Woman is charged with poisoning her daughter

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus woman who told police officials last week her 7-year-old daughter burned her mouth with tainted Halloween candy now has allegedly taken responsibility for the injuries.

Rossalynn Chatman, a 24-year-old black female, was arraigned by Judge William Szilinis of the 34th District Court in the Westland Medical Center Saturday. Chatman was hospitalized for observation when she experienced difficulty speaking during her arrest.

Chatman was charged with assault with intent to murder. Bond was set at $500,000, and the woman is now in the custody of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. A preliminary examination was scheduled for Nov. 15 at the 34th District Court.

Last week, Chatman's daughter was rushed to the hospital with burns to the throat, lips, chin and tongue. Her mother told hospital officials that the girl had recently tasted a piece of peanut butter candy and immediately spit it out, implying the candy was tainted.

After several interviews with police officials, the young woman was asked to participate in a lie detector test. At that point, police said, Chatman admitted she had tried to kill her daughter.

"She decided she couldn't make the child happy," said Romulus Detective Sgt. Dan Snyder.

In her statement to the police, Chatman claimed she wanted her daughter's death to be painless. She admitted to placing a spoon of crystal drain cleaner in the girl's mouth assuming it would poison her, police officials said.

Minutes later, the woman heard her daughter screaming, she told police. After stopping at the home of the girl's grandmother, Chatman drove her to Ann Arbor Hospital in Wayne. From there, the girl was transported to Mott's Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Police officials said they quickly became suspicious of Chatman's claims of tainted candy. The peanut butter candy the girl tasted was taken to the Michigan State Police Lab where it tested negative for a lyse-based substance.

During initial interviews between Chatman and the police, she reported three different times at which her daughter tasted the candy, ranging from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"The facts just weren't fitting," Snyder said.

However, until Chatman's confession, police officials warned area residents not to eat their Halloween candy. Representatives from Chatman's apartment complex, Wellesley Townhouses, asked tenants to turn their candy in to them for free replacements.

"The complex did a super job," Snyder said.

Snyder also acknowledged the help of Lt. Hale Raupp of the Michigan State Police who conducted Chatman's lie detector test.

Developing program will target drugs

Sandra Langley had a good idea. Not only that, her idea has worked.

When the school board member proposed an anti-drug rally for Romulus students last summer she set into motion suggestions for a year of educational activities geared toward students and their parents. Langley refers to this still evolving project as Build a Bridge to the Future.

The original idea, a drug rally, formed when several Michigan districts staged an anti-drug rally last spring at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"I thought possibly we could do something ourselves," Langley said.

As she planned a Romulus rally during the summer, Langley decided such an event could be a way to introduce a more in-depth drug education program within the community. The rally is now being planned as a way to celebrate the activities it spawned.

Ultimately, Langley wants to do more than warn people about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse. She hopes to inform residents of the resources available in Romulus - student support systems, an upcoming adolescent health center, police education programs for youth, the high school Students Against Drunk Driving chapter, the summer youth program and a "drug mobile."

"The community is not aware of all the things we have going...the good things we have," she said.

Response to her ideas has been strong, Langley added. Already, she has spoken with members of all the local parent/teacher organizations.

"I've challenged them to come up with activities. We (organizers) will provide the material, the resources," Langley said.

She has also addressed representatives of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, the Romulus Board of Education and the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse, of which she is a member.

Langley is especially excited about a plan to videotape whatever activities evolve on the local cable television channel. Each show could focus on events in a different school along with the community activities. Making students "stars" may be a way to attract the interest of parents, Langley said.

"One of the strongest things I've learned though all of my talking is the necessity of educating adults, too...To encourage open communication, talking with their kids."

Other proposed activities include a role model program en-

Sandra Langley has watched her idea for an anti-drug rally blossom into a series of activities that will span the school year. Langley wants the students helping with these educational projects to play a major role in planning, adding their own creative touches. Mayor pro tem says farewell

ANP Staff Writer

The city of Romulus bid an affectionate farewell Monday evening to Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks as she chaired her final city council meeting.

Banks was presented with a bouquet of flowers from Councilman Ellis Pennington, who proposed a resolution, which received unanimous support, served as a thank-you note from the city.

Banks, who has served 12 years on city council, was also presented with a plaque from Mayor Beverly McAnally recognizing her accomplishments.

Adding to the collection of gifts, department of public works Director James Panos gave Banks a special campaign sign as a memento.

Appearing quite moved, Banks took time to thank the people she has worked with during her years in city government.

"This has been one of the most engrossing experiences I've ever had...This chair can sometimes be a hot seat, and on the whole my colleagues have been very understanding," she said.

Banks has served as mayor pro tem for six consecutive terms. She announced her decision not to seek re-election earlier this year, explaining she wanted more time to spend with her family.

As she accepted her gifts Monday night, Banks received a standing ovation from those attending the city council meeting.

2 houses targeted for attack

Two Romulus homes were targeted for attack this weekend, one by gunshots and the other by bricks, according to Romulus police officials.

The first case was reported at 1:20 a.m., Saturday at a house on Tobine Street. Although the incident began with a group of men throwing bricks at the house, it resulted in the assault of one of the occupants, police said.

While two men in the house were watching television, a group of approximately 10 white males reportedly started throwing bricks and cinder blocks at the building. In addition to breaking several windows on the house, the group damaged two cars parked nearby, police officials said.

Eventually, some of the men entered the house, and one of them struck an occupant on the left eye with a brick. Shortly after the men fled the scene.

The victim, 22 years old, is under treatment at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, and may lose his eye, hospital officials told police.

Police officials believe the incident may be related to fight that occurred during a party Nov. 1 at the same address.

In addition, police officials investigated a similar incident involving gunshots reported at 6:10 a.m., Saturday.

Three bullets were fired at a house on the 34000 block of Lynn. One bullet broke through a front window. No one was injured.

Isaac Staples, 20, of Romulus, was charged Monday of malicious destruction of property and felony firearm. Bond was set at $20,000, and the defendant awaits a Nov. 15 preliminary examination from Wayne County jail.

Police officials traced Staples from a car damage report entered by his friend earlier that day.

Sewer improvements require funding plan

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Residents along sections of Hannan, Ecorse and Wayne roads may see sewer and water improvements next year as a result of a new finance strategy for the proposed projects.

City council members approved Monday night a resolution of intent to set the improvements into motion next year and fund them through a bond issue of up to $2 million.

This project was presented to councilmembers by Mayor Beverly McAnally. During a recent study session with council, the mayor said the city currently has $3.3 million in cash reserves designated for sewer projects. A large portion of that account is accumulated from tap fees.

McAnally proposed using that account as a type of safety net to ensure the city can repay the bonds, a method she believes would be more beneficial to the city.

First, the city would utilize tap fees from users of the new sewage systems to repay the bonds. If the sewer account was used, McAnally said, residents who may never benefit from sewer installation would help fund the project.

"We're not putting this on the backs of the little people," she said.

In addition, McAnally told councilmembers the bond issue may allow the city to earn a profit. She enlisted the help of financial advisor Tony Paparella, assistant vice president of Prescott, Bull & Turben, Inc., to supply councilmembers with information on this point.

Basically, he said, interest rates paid on the bonds would not be as high as the interest earned on the invested sewer account. The difference would be profit for the city.

Paparella estimated this profit could range from $40,000 to $116,000.

Additional money could be earned by investing the proceeds of the bond issue, he said.

Couple is determined to find hope

By FLORENCE MEEKS

At the age of 8 months, Latoya Jones has seen more than her share of problems in life.

Shortly after birth, she was diagnosed with biliary atresia, an often fatal liver disease.

When her parents, Raye and Lamont, look at the tiny infant, they still cannot believe they may lose her.

The Romulus couple has two older children, Lakiesha, 4, and Jerome, 6. Raye said it never occurred to her that her third baby would not be just as healthy as the first two.

Almost immediately after Latoya was born, however, her doctor became concerned with the child's health.

"Something was very wrong," Raye recalled.

Latoya underwent extensive testing at Children's Hospital in Detroit. Eventually, her doctor diagnosed her liver disease. Biliary atresia results in the scarring of bile ducts, preventing the liver from releasing the vital fluid into the digestive system where it is needed.

The Jones were informed Latoya faces a two-year life expectancy without a liver transplant. That process, however, may cost up to $1.5 million according to Raye.

Although the family is insured, coverage is limited and does not encompass the cost of a transplant or the follow-up care that would be needed. Currently, the Jones say they rely on Medicaid to fund the medication and treatment their existing policy will not

Complicating the situation further, Lamont said, is time he spends at home helping his wife with the children who may cost him his job as a machine operator.

Hoping to find a solution, Raye is searching for social and government agencies that may help her help her daughter. She is optimistic about recent meeting with the president of the Children's Transplant Association of Michigan.

"This is all new to me... It happens to people you read about, not to me," Raye said.

Because of Latoya's illness, Raye has found her time for her other two children has dwindled. It is her husband who has tried to make up the difference to them, she said.

couraging housing and a stable home life for citizens.

Fred Junior Block has been a councilmember for approximately 18 years. He said his experience as a self-employed business man has proven valuable in his role with the city.

Receiving the highest number of votes among candidates for city council was Gear. He will be serving his second term in office. Gear said he enjoys representing his community.

Pennington has served on the township board of directors and on the first Romulus city council from 1970 to 1973. He returned to council in 1985. Pennington identified the impact of drainage projects upon development and residents as a major city concern.

Raspberry served as a councilmember from 1970 to 1973 after serving on the township board. Raspberry was also a councilmember from 1975 to 1985 and from 1987 to present. He said he wants to work for increased housing, development and road improvements.

Wadsworth has served consecutive terms on city council since 1983. He said he is concerned with taxes, city services, law enforcement and fire protection. Wadsworth added that he wants to see quality of life maintained in Romulus in light of airport industrial growth.

In addition to the election, Romulus voters made their decisions on two state finance proposals for education. Proposal A would have increased the state sales tax from 4 cents to 4 1/2 cents on dollar and direct the money toward education. Romulus voters cast 1,111 "yes" votes for the proposal and 2,744 "no" votes.

Proposal B would have increased sales taxes from 6 cents to 6 cents per dollar, reduce school property taxes and set permanent school operating millages. In Romulus the proposal received 530 "yes" votes and 3,122 "no" votes.

New animal shelter halted

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

As a result of financial difficulties, Michigan Humane Society officials reported that construction on a new shelter at the Westland branch, will be placed on hold indefinitely.

"Earlier in the year, we had a report made on the financial status of the operation, and the board of directors decided we couldn't support both the operation and building the new facility," said Chuck Korotko, an accountant with the Michigan Humane Society.

A temporary hold, Korotko said, has been placed on all the contracts until the cash flow is such, that it can support both operations.

"We don't know when construction will continue," he said. "We are constantly thinking about it. But at this time, no date has been selected."

The exterior of the new building, located behind the current shelter building on Marquette Street, in Westland, has been completed.

The first phase, which included the outside walls and the heating units, was completed earlier this year. The second phase will include inside walls, kennels and plumbing.

"Right now it's just a big room with a dirt floor," said Sue Gates, manager of the Westland facility. "There is still a lot of work to be done."

Gates said the building is needed in Westland, because of the poor ventilation in the current shelter.

"The disease factor here is very high," she said. "I don't think the person who built the building, ever built a shelter before. The drainage and ventilation are poor."

Gates said there is a kennel cough problem at the shelter, and despite precautions, it's tough to control.

"We do everything we can to prevent it, but with the poor ventilation, it's difficult," she said. "We give people 15 days of free treatment, in case the animal is sick."

The Michigan Humane Society does not receive any funds from the government. Almost 60 percent of the operation is funded by public donations. The balance of their $4.4 million budget, comes from fees received through the hospitals and shelters.

Residents to walk for meals

Ed McNamara is looking for some walking partners.

The Wayne County executive is urging residents to participate in the first-ever county organized "Miles for Meals" walkathon. The walk, scheduled for Nov. 11 at the University of Michigan Dearborn fieldhouse, has been organized to collect funds and recruit volunteers for the local meals-on-wheels program.

Contributions collected from the event may be designated for a specific community, at the "walkers" request.

"Wayne County's walkathon is just one of thousands of local events being planned across the country to raise funds and heighten public awareness of the needs of our senior citizens," McNamara said.

The demand for home-delivered meals has doubled during the last three years, according to McNamara, and there is an even greater need for funding.

According to Wayne County records, more than $1 million home delivered, liquid, and congregate meals were served last year, thousands more than were projected would be needed.

Opening ceremonies for the local event begin at 9 a.m., followed by the 5-kilometer walk and a toddler trot and kiddie crawl at 11 a.m.

Ghost stories come to life at Wick elementary

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Bringing their imaginations to life, a group of students at Wick Elementary School created a Halloween village last week. The artists are fifth- and sixth-graders in a special education class taught by Chris Consales. Initially, the students worked on the village for a few minutes every day after completing their school work. As Halloween neared, they picked up the pace. The village is constructed of shoe boxes. The students used fluorescent markers and black lights to create an eerie effect. On specially constructed trapezes, ghosts and witches soar above the miniature buildings. To complete the picture, each section has a story behind it written by the students. The village lore was then recorded with some rather scary noises in the background. For students and parents who toured the village Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, the recordings were reminiscent of a museum tour, Consales said. Because this experience was intended to be educational, all the artists learned nouns and verbs associated with their village, the teacher said. More important, Consales said, was the boost to the students' self-esteem. The village creators are: Kelly Brooks, Sarah Crook, Allen DeBusk, Tony Edmonds, Craig Jones, Kevin Kitchens, Chris Molnar, Richard Poet, Daniel Williams and Nicole Wright.

Voters reject school proposals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Local voters joined their counterparts across the state of Michigan on Tuesday and soundly defeated two state school finance proposals that lawmakers said would pump new dollars into schools.

Proposal A - a proposition that would amend the state constitution to increase the state's sales and use tax from the present 4 cents per dollar to 4 1/2 cents and constitutionally dedicate the resulting $400 million new dollars was defeated by slightly more than a 2-1 margin in the area.

Proposal B was buried locally by more than a 3-1 margin. The proposition asked voters to approve a 2 cents sales tax and offered to provide some property tax breaks to homeowners who have been besieged by skyrocketing property taxes.

"It is obvious by Tuesday's results that the voters do not want what was proposed," said Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City), a member of the House Committee on Education. "The message is clear.

Proposal A was endorsed by Governor James Blanchard and the Harden Commission, a group that had reviewed Michigan's school finance system in 1987. It didn't, however, have the endorsement of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce which viewed the sales tax as a deterrent to doing business in Michigan.

Proposal B represents a plan put forward in March - a compromise measure - by representatives Nye-Oxender which received strong, but insufficient legislative support.

The clamor for reform was initiated by the lawmakers because of an outcry by the educators and school officials who have pointed to the inequities of the present school financing system. The per pupil spending ranges in school districts varies from $7,800 in some of the more wealthier ones to $2,000 in the poorest.

One of the key issues surrounding the debate on school finance reform also centered on the quality of education. "The message from the voters is an obvious one," Keith added. "They don't like what we gave them - but I'm sure this is not the last we've heard about school finance. What are we going to do about it? Right now, I don't know. We're going to have to go back to the drawing boards."

In Inkster, where voters have recently approved millages in both the Westwood and Inkster school districts, a "fed up" electorate rejected Proposal A 1,587-1050; they slaughtered Proposal B 1,805 - 585.

"I think people just didn't buy what the lawmakers were selling," said Delphine Oden, city clerk.

Romulus voters turned their backs on Proposal A 2,744-1,111; they also killed Proposal B by more nearly a 3-1 margin 3,122-540.

Over in Westland where a heated mayoral race ended in an upset as incumbent Charles T. Griffin lost to political newcomer Robert Thomas, Proposal A died 11,346 to 4,001; Proposal B fell resoundingly 12,972-2,096.

In Wayne, Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Canton, the proposal didn't fare any better.

Wayne voters turned down Proposal A 2,185 to 2,257, while they rejected Proposal B 2,491-596.

In Belleville, Proposal A lost 414 to 249; and Proposal B was defeated 475-140, while in neighboring Van Buren Township, the voters said no to Proposal A, 1,824 to 1,381.

Sumpter voters also disliked Proposal A. They rejected it 776-359, and also voted against Proposal B, 822-206.

Canton Township voters said "no" to Proposal A, 6,144 to 1,534; and overwhelmingly defeated Proposal B 6,762 to 838.

In communities such as Inkster, Van Buren, Canton and Sumpter, the proposals were the only issues before the voters, so there was a smaller turnout at the polls.

Dropouts may lose licenses

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

A proposal to revoke drivers licenses from high school dropouts is being viewed with skepticism locally and in Lansing. The proposal, which is being co-sponsored by state Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth), has received scathing criticism from one of Law's House colleagues, as well as some mixed emotions in the area. State Rep. Joseph Young Jr. (D-Detroit) released a letter recently in which he blasted the Law proposal as "discriminatory" and a mere "quick fix" to the problem of high school dropouts.

"For low-income pupils, we need a dropout policy that deals with causes, not one that heaps punishment upon those already in trouble," Young said.

Ron Stratton, principal of Wayne Memorial High School, said he has not formulated a concrete opinion on the idea, because he believes there may be more to the idea than can be seen at first glance.

"On the surface, it's a great idea," Stratton said. "It'll touch the kid who might be a fence-sitter."

But Stratton acknowledged that there may be other issues involved in trying to hold down the dropout rate, and said he is unsure how it would work in the real world.

"I'm not sure that taking their drivers licenses is very practical," Stratton said. "I'd have to see how the logistics work."

In general, Stratton said, he supports any effort that prevents students from dropping out of school.

According to Law, the threat of taking licenses away is effective because teenagers regard the drivers license as one of their most important symbols of freedom.

But Young said that perception does not apply in economically depressed areas, where students cannot afford automobiles.

"This program creates law breakers," Young said. "For every youngster who stays in school, another youngster will break the law merely by driving a car. It is foolish to create a new class of law breaker in order to 'bribe' others to stay in school."

Young said dropout prevention programs should not be punitive. Instead, he said, they should deal with the reasons that students drop out, and should target all dropouts, not just those in certain classes of society.

Romulus Community School officials, in conjunction with local business, have launched a campaign to curb the dropout rate in that district. Students, teachers and business people are working together to consider methods for keeping kids in schools. This particular suggestion has not been discussed, but rather discussion has centered on improved self-esteem and promoting education.

Attempts made to allow more access

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

An attempt to change Freedom of Information requests has met resistance from some district judges, but one local judge said he has no problem with it.

State Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) has proposed legislation that would allow requests under the Freedom of Information Act to be made in small claims court.

Such claims currently must be made in circuit courts.

According to Brett McRae, a legislative aide to Bullard, the only opposition to the measure so far has come from the District Judges Association.

But 35th District Judge John MacDonald said he personally does not oppose the Bullard proposal, and does now know why the judges' association would have a problem with it.

"I have no problem with that," MacDonald said. "We're very open here. We let the press in here look at whatever they want to look at."

McRae said district judges should have little to oppose in the legislation.

"It's not as if they aren't well-paid to work hard," McRae said.

OPEN HEART SURGERY — MORE COMMON THAN YOU THINK

By Bruce C. Washington, M.D.

Open heart valve surgery and open heart bypass surgery are major medical advances that save lives and improve the quality of life.

Many people think of open heart surgery as something done only in a life or death situation. Although some of these surgeries are emergencies, most are planned. They follow extensive diagnostic work which often includes stress testing and cardiac catheterization.

More than 200,000 people undergo open heart surgery each year. It is now one of the most common operations. Hundreds of open heart surgeries have been performed at Oakwood Hospital with excellent results.

There is no age limitation on bypass surgery. The majority of patients are over 70, and Oakwood recently performed a bypass operation on an 89-year-old patient.

Open heart surgery may be done to repair or replace a heart valve. Mechanical valves made of titanium and carbon, or porcine valves, taken from the aorta of a pig, are used.

Bypass open heart surgery is done to increase blood flow beyond blocked sections of coronary arteries. Blockages are usually caused by atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries. An artery from the chest wall or section of a vein, usually from the patient's leg is used to replace the blocked artery to the heart.

Both types of open heart surgery are performed by highly specialized teams of experts which include the surgeons, an anesthesiologist, a nurse clinician to assist the surgeons, surgical nurses and two technicians who run the heart-lung bypass machine.

Open heart surgery is part of Oakwood Hospital's comprehensive treatment of heart problems.

9-1-1 receives good report card

After four months of operation, the 17-member Conference of Western Wayne reported the enhanced 9-1-1 system has been a success.

The multi-community project, coordinated by Joseph Benyo, was termed "an outstanding example" of cooperation, and has been named as a model for other multi-community efforts to establish an emergency telephone system.

Benyo received a distinguished service award from the CWW at the October meeting.

The coordinator reported that a few minor problems still exist in the system, but "for the most part, they have been corrected."

Benyo said he will continue to monitor the operation of the system, and will be available until all of the issues surrounding the project have been resolved.

The coordinator said many of the minor problems which have surfaced in one community can be traced to insufficient participation in the pre-training programs sponsored by the CWW. Training sessions were conducted monthly prior to the June 13 start-up date for all personnel involved in the operation of the enhanced 9-1-1 system.

Food

This treat hails from the South

just desserts

'Y'all do remember 'bout last week when I explained that I had just gotten back from Atlanta? That was, believe it or not, a business trip, but this week I am on vacation.

While the southern accent acquired in about 20 minutes in the company of all those sweet talkin' Georgia folk hasn't quite abated just yet (much to the consternation and stern disapproval of my husband) I am actually going on a pleasure trip this week. As you read this I am lounging on the beach in Cancun, Mexico checking the insides of my eyelids for light leaks. I plan to do a great deal of nothing for 10 glorious days.

While I don't exactly feel, well, guilty, I do have some hesitation. Having not taken a real vacation in five years or so, I'm not quite sure that this is appropriate and am having all sorts of fears about what could happen in my absence. Suppose you all desert me and decide you like some other food writer better. Suppose you succumb to some other writer's recipes and don't ever return to ogle my meringue?

Just to make sure, however, here is a priceless recipe for triple chocolate cake from a restaurant in Atlanta that is famous for this treat. This really does taste like it was baked by the angels and is worth every bit of effort involved.

Enjoy...and like McArthur, I shall return.

Triple Layer Chocolate Cake

2 1/4 cups cake flour (NOT ALL PURPOSE)

1 3/4 cups sugar
2 sticks butter, room temperature
3/4 cup milk
4 ounces (4 squares) unsweetened baking chocolate, melted
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
4 eggs
1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups toasted walnut halves

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease three 9-inch layer cake pans. Sift flour into large bowl. Add sugar, butter 3/4 cup milk, chocolate, baking soda and salt, and beat with electric mixer two minutes at medium speed. Add remaining milk, eggs, baking powder and vanilla and beat two minutes more. Pour into prepared pans and bake in middle of oven 30 minutes, or until cakes test done and have pulled away slightly from sides of pan. Allow to cool completely on racks. Place first layer on plate and frost. Sprinkle with half the chopped nuts, if desired. Repeat with second layer, using remaining chopped nuts. Top with third layer and frost top and sides of cake. Decorate top of cake with toasted walnut halves.

Frosting:

1 cup plus 2 tablespoons cocoa
1/3 cup cooking oil
3/4 cup butter
4 cups sifted powdered sugar
5 tablespoons strongly brewed coffee
2 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
pinch salt

Soften chocolate and butter in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water. Stir in remaining ingredients. Place top of double boiler in bowl of ice and beat frosting with electric mixer about five minutes, or until it reaches spreading consistency.

A little bakery at home

You may not need this much dough for your home bakery projects, but at Maria's bakery in Canton Township they do. The large mound of dough is separated and rolled into smaller balls by John Carter (left to right), Carmella Stenta and bakery owner Rick Cervi. This particular batch of dough will be used for pizza crusts. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Nothing can quite compare to the aroma found at a bakery.

Fresh breads, rolls, cakes, cookies, pies and all the other goodies are irresistible to the eyes, the nose, but especially the taste buds.

At Maria's Bakery in Canton Township, customers cannot escape the aromas of fresh baked goods as owner Rick Cervi is determined to provide old-time quality.

Cervi opened the Canton Township bakery in 1976 and recently watched offshoots open in Westland and Belleville.

Popular choices at the bakery are square pizza and pizza bread. The latter is a combination of cheese, sauce and meat surrounded by pizza crust. Weekly, the bakery goes through approximately 2,000 pounds of pizza dough, Cervi said.

For dessert, Maria's has a special shell and filling recipe for canoles. Top secret.

Other temptations include several types of cheese cake, pies, tortes and baklava - why not baklava in an Italian bakery?

Everything Cervi makes is from scratch.

"I started this way, and I want to stay this way."

When Cervi was starting out, it was not unusual to put in 15- or 16-hour workdays. It was his inspiration that established the business, but it was his mother-in-law who educated him in the kitchen. She was already a veteran baker when Cervi enlisted her, his new wife and two sisters-in-law into service.

While he is happy with the reality of owning his own business, it is the time in the kitchen that gives Cervi the most satisfaction, he said.

As a well-practiced handler of pizza dough, Cervi has developed a philosophy about what a quality product should be. The crust should be well developed with generous ingredients and real cheese. Cervi expressed contempt for a growing trend among pizzerias of using imitation cheese.

One of his new creations, the taco pizza, blends cheddar with the traditional mozzarella.

Also crucial, Cervi said, is a good sauce. He prefers a spicy mixture.

Although Cervi refused to reveal the secrets to his pizza, he did agree to furnish recipes for other bakery goodies. All of these recipes are simple to prepare, he promised.

Onion bread

1 1/2 pounds pizza dough
1 large onion, chopped
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon parmesan cheese
Shredded mozzarella cheese
Salt
Pepper

Chop pizza dough into small pieces. Roughly chop in onion, garlic powder, parmesan cheese and mozzarella cheese. Fan on a baking sheet coated with olive oil. Bake in moderate oven approximately 20 minutes.

Butter cookies

2 pounds powdered sugar
2 1/2 pounds margarine
4 1/2 pounds velvet flour
1 pint whole eggs
1/4 quart milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 tablespoon lemon extract

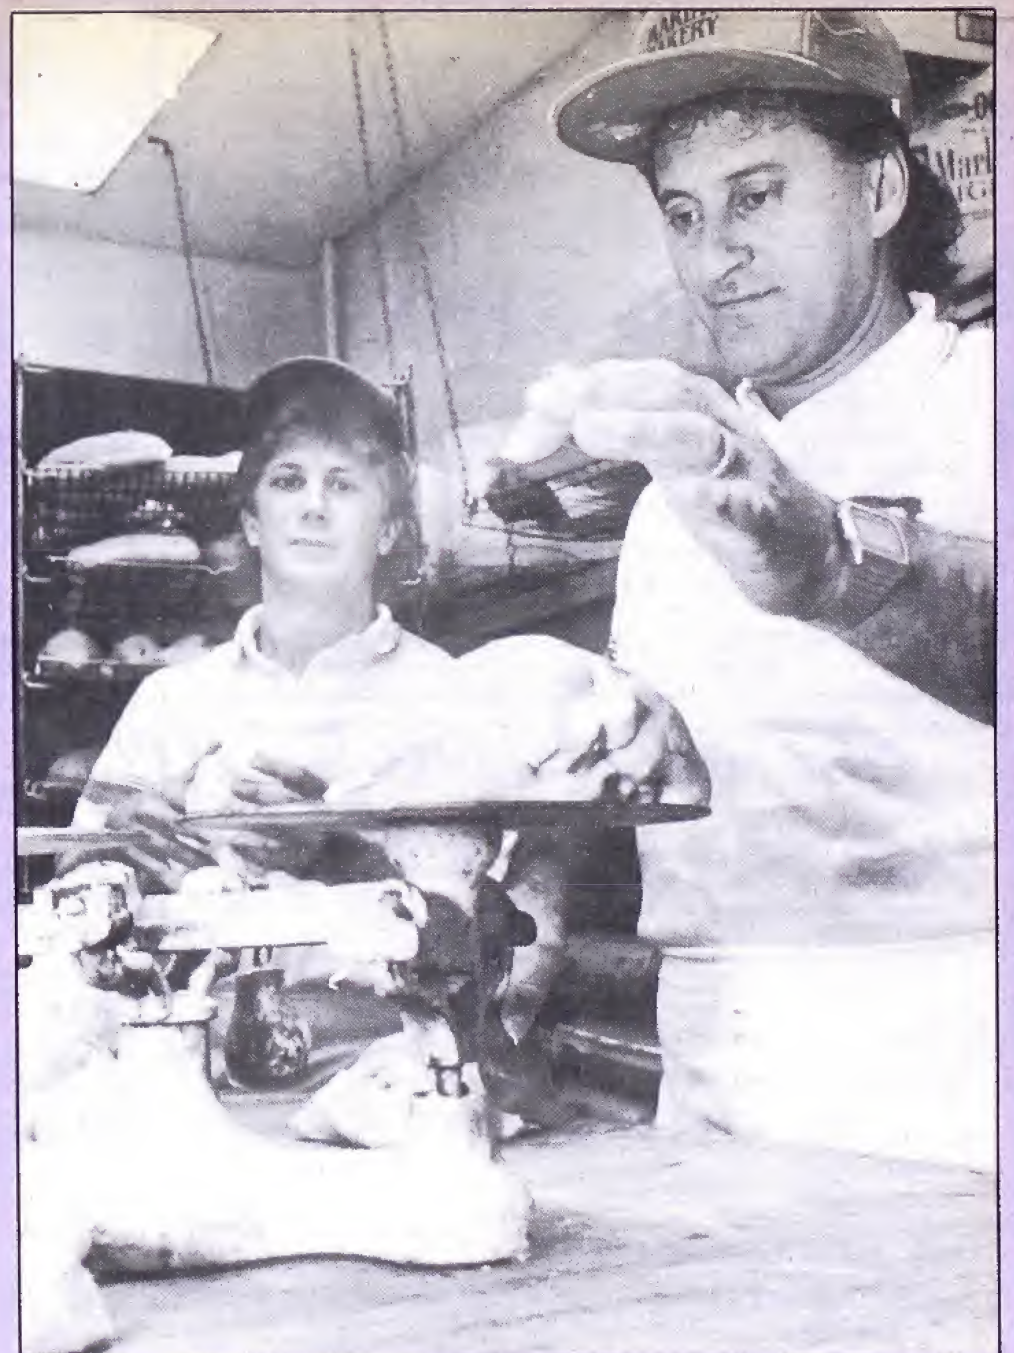

Cream together sugar and margarine. (This is a very large recipe, it may be easier to reduce the ingredient portions or mix them in segments.) Mix in eggs, milk, vanilla and lemon extract. Combine well. Stir in flour in portions until thick dough forms. Roll into one-inch balls and place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven until cookies are lightly browned.

Here are some additional recipes to put you in the mood for bakery goodies.

Brown sugar sesame cookies

1/2 cup sesame seeds
12 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups dark brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
1 1/4 teaspoons vanilla
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. While preparing cookie mix, toast sesame seeds by placing in skillet and into a 325 degree oven, stirring once in awhile so as to brown evenly. Remove from oven when lightly brown. Cream butter with brown sugar until light. Beat in the eggs and vanilla. Sift the dry ingredients together, add toasted sesame seeds and add to the cookie batter, blending thoroughly. Drop by teaspoons approximately two inches apart on cookie sheet lined with waxed paper. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until lightly brown. Remove from paper while hot.

Dough is carefully weighed by bakery owner Rick Cervi (above) to ensure that each mound is equal. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Lime drop cookies

8 tablespoons butter, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 egg yolk
1 1/2 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup fresh lime juice
1 teaspoon lime zest
1/2 teaspoon lemon zest

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream the butter, add sugar, egg and yolk and blend well. Sift the dry ingredients together and add to the batter alternately with lime juice, beating to mix. Add zest of lime and lemon, mix again. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet. Bake in preheated oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Yields about 75 cookies.

Sicilian cream puffs

Shells for 1 1/2 dozen cream puffs
1 pound of ricotta cheese, sieved
4 tablespoons extra fine granulated sugar
2 tablespoons bitter chocolate, grated
2 tablespoons grated orange zest
1 1/2 teaspoons almond extract
Milk or cream, if needed
Candied orange peel and candied cherries for garnish

Combine the cheese with the sugar and beat until smooth. Fold in the balance of the ingredients. Add cream or milk only if needed to thin. Fill the puffs, dust with powdered sugar, and garnish with thinly sliced candied orange peel and candied cherries.

DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

Local hotel isn't just for travelers

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Despite popular rumor, the Holiday Inn-Detroit Metro Airport provides more than rooms for the night.

With a large restaurant and lounge, the Romulus hotel caters to local residents as well as travelers.

At the lounge, Bridgetts, a casual wear fashion show is staged every Thursday evening from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Models display sportswear, swimsuits and lingerie. After the show, the clothing is auctioned.

On Friday and Saturday nights, Bridgetts hosts live entertainment. Music ranges from Top 40, to oldies or country.

For football fans, lounge visitors can order from an appetizer menu Monday nights. In addition, the hotel is joining members of the Holiday Inn chain nationwide to sponsor a Superbowl sweepstakes. The winner will be sent to watch the big game.

Independently, the hotel is sponsoring a similar contest with a VCR as the prize.

"If they can't go to the game at least they can tape it," said Barry Toms, general manager.

Adding to the football zani-ness at the lounge, the staff offers a special halftime show - table football. Participants "kick" books of matches over miniature goal posts with their fingers. Door prizes such as footballs, jerseys or mugs go to the winners.

The hotel has also been known to host parties in the lounge. The most recent event was a Halloween bash.

Next is the New Year's Eve Celebration package - a room, dinner, drinks (including champagne) and a recovery brunch for New Year's Day. The package costs $169.95, and Toms recommends making reservations now.

In addition to the lounge, the Holiday Inn features a restaurant, the Aintree Cafe. Discounts are available to members of the VIP Club and the Lunch Club.

Popular with local residents is the early bird special, said Rhonda Roberts, food and beverage director. Offered daily from 5 to 7 p.m., the meal costs $6.50 for adults and $5.25 for senior citizens.

Younger customers, 4 to 10 years old, are entitled to 99-cent meals any time of day.

Other restaurant offerings include the family-style buffet available every Friday evening - fried chicken, barbecued ribs, soup and salad bar, homemade bread pudding and more.

"The whole works," Roberts laughed.

Also offered is the Italian buffet on Saturday evenings.

We often hear people say "Someday I'd like to go skiing!" This usually follows a movie or TV show about the sport. The look of expectant thrills on the face of a skier as he starts down a slope prompts that wish to get out on the snow.

No other activity matches shoving the poles back and starting a swift, smooth run, with nothing in front of you but a vast expanse of white! Speed, skill, and agility are combined to give the skier a feeling of sheer exhilaration a feeling that both beginners and experts share.

Aspen, Colorado is one of many famous ski resorts, with up to 250 inches of dry powder (snow, that is) annually. There are four (count 'em) mountains with ski runs for every one beginners, advance and experts. Never went skiing before? Don't give it a thought! Snure swims to silver medals

ANP Staff Writer

Although she turned in a couple of "awesome performances" at the 1989 Wolverine 'A' Conference swimming & diving championships, Belleville High's sensational sophomore swimmer, Jennifer Snure, had to settle for silver medals in the two events she competed.

"Snure was just outstanding," said Belleville Coach Greg Cooper, whose Tigers wound up team-wise in fourth place. "She was denied the gold medals by the same girl, who beat her twice."

Snure turned in the second best time for the 200-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 2:04.71. She lost the gold to Wayne Memorial's senior swimmer, Cathy Farrell, who touched in first with a 2:03.05.

The two archrivals were pitted against one another again in the gruelling 500-yard freestyle event. And again it was Farrell who surfaced from the waters with the gold.

Farrell's winning time for the 500 was a 5:33.93, edging Snure, who kept the outcome of the race in doubt right down to the 17th length when her rival pulled away. Snure's silver-winning time was 5:41.26.

State-ranked and undefeated Trenton captured the team championships. The Trojans amassed 405 points to easily outdistance defending champ, Monroe, which was second with 219 points.

The league champ and runner-up were followed in the final standings by Wayne Memorial (167), Belleville (148), Wyandotte (82), Dearborn Fordson (66) and Southgate (59).

Snure was also nominated for all-conference honors.

Belleville also received a regional-qualifying effort from sophomore diver Kristen Lucas, who was awarded the bronze medal for her 352.80 point performance. Trenton diver Jennifer Rotondo won the league crown while her teammate, Ann St. Clair, was runner-up.

Belleville also placed eighth on the diving boards thanks to Angela Weise.

Kristin Curtis contributed a pair of fourth-place finishes to the Tiger cause. She placed fourth in the 100-yard butterfly (1:08.83) and repeated her fourth-place efforts in the 100-yard backstroke (1:10.81).

Cooper completed his third year as the girls' swimming coach with a 3-3 conference and a 6-4-1 overall record. Asked if the 'Pay-to-Play' policy presented a problem for the suc-

Champs again Robichaud runners retain title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Defending champ Robichaud left no doubt in anyone's mind which cross country team was the best in the Suburban Athletic Conference this year.

The undefeated Bulldogs breezed to an easy victory at the conference meet to successfully defend their title.

"We lost a couple of tough nonleague meets at the beginning of the season, but that only helped to get the rough spots out. The kids went on to win all of their SAC dual meets and the conference championship.

"They deserve to be champs again," Hadley said.

The Dearborn Heights runners piled up 42 points, coasting past second-place finisher Highland Park (68), Oak Park (80), River Rouge (84), Ecorse (95) and Inkster (151).

However, Highland Park had the distinction of producing the No. 1 runner in the league. Senior Mario Lewis covered the 5 kilometer course in 17:44, leading the rest of the pack across the finish line.

Robichaud had the third and fourth best runners in the conference thanks to Billy Orsette, who was clocked in 18:37, while teammate Frank Hayes turned in the fourth best time of 18:42. The Bulldogs also placed sixth with

Belleville coach looks to '90 cross country season

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Over the years, Belleville High has produced some of the finest cross country talent in Michigan.

That tradition will continue, says first-year coach Sam Vicchy as he reflects upon the 1989 campaign and looks forward to 1990.

"Most of my kids this year were only freshmen," Vicchy said. "And they stood out in a league (Wolverine A) that is noted for its distance runners. I feel we will be able, if these kids stick to it, to run with the best of them next year and years to come."

One major obstacle that Vicchy and his colleagues have had to contend with this year is the 'Pay-to-Play' policy forced upon them and the athletes due to the lack of funds in the Van Buren School District.

Voters turned down a board millage proposal this summer, which led to across-the-board cutbacks. Consequently, to salvage the varsity athletic program, athletes were asked to pay $250 each to help defray costs.

From the ranks of Vicchy's 1989 team, the Tigers had the best individual runner in the conference in Ann Gray, a freshman who earned all-state recognition.

"Ann will form the nucleus of our team a year from now," Vicchy said. "We have some other outstanding young runners."

Inkster shooting for cage record

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster High Coach Dwight Hotchkiss and his Vikings will wrap up the 1989 Suburban Athletic Conference basketball season tonight, clashing with the Flyers of Willow Run.

Willow Run is one of the six teams that Inkster will host for the Class B district (No. 40) tournament, which is scheduled to get underway in the high school gym on Monday. The four other teams include defending district champ and state-ranked Dearborn Divine Child, Allen Park Cabrini, Dearborn Heights Annapolis and Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Games at Inkster will be played at 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The semifinals are scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 15 and the championship will be decided at 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 17.

"I feel we have as good a shot at the title as anyone," said Hotchkiss, whose Vikings finished second to Oak Park for the SAC title. "But, obviously, D. C. (Divine Child) has to be considered the team to beat at our playoffs. They are ranked in the state."

The Vikings breezed to their 13th and 14th victories of the season last week, ripping Dearborn, 80-44, and turning back Robichaud, 59-14. If they can beat Ypsilanti and Willow Run in their final two games of the regular season, Hotchkiss could finish 16-3, the best-ever girls' basketball season.

Late in the second period Inkster broke open the game against the Pioneers of Dearborn. Tennessee transplant Leatrice Scott came alive with 12 of her game-high 22 points to lead the Vikings from a 10-6 first period to a 30-18 halftime advantage.

Inkster outscored their nonconference rivals 27-11 in the third period and 23-17 in the finale.

Scott, a 5-8 forward, has been in double figures since joining the Vikings three weeks ago.

"She's a legitimate all-state candidate," Hotchkiss said. "She's aggressive on the boards and an excellent shot as well."

Scott made eight of her 16 attempts from the field and contributed 15 rebounds.

Tequan Abney, who sank all of her 12 points in the third period, and Alexis Watson, who accounted for 14 points, also were in double figures for the Vikings.

Inkster erupted to a 20-5 first period lead and never looked back against Robichaud on Thursday as three players reached double figures. Abney made eight of her game high 20 points in the opening frame. Scott and Tawana Green also counted 10 points for the Vikings.

Playoffs next Eagles tune up for post-season cage tourney

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Eagles of Romulus will close out the regular basketball season tonight, then prepare for the Class A district playoffs which they will host starting next week.

Coach Tim Cullen and his cagers will host Ypsilanti tonight in the South Central Conference finale for both teams. The Eagles played league-leading Ann Arbor Pioneer Tuesday.

"We're improving," said Cullen, after the Eagles won a "precarious" 23-point victory last week at the expense of Ann Arbor Huron. "But we're still missing a lot of easy shots and making too many turnovers."

Cullen explained the "precarious" victory in this way. With two of his players playing with four personal fouls and no reserves available, the Eagles were faced with an uncomfortable situation of playing with less than five players in the final half against Huron.

"It was the most precarious 20-point victory I have ever been involved in," said Cullen. "We were lucky we had that big lead."

With Sue Molenda pumping in seven of her 16 points in the first period - she had 14 for the initial half - the Eagles jumped out in front 21-8. They survived the rest of the evening off of their lead as Huron matched them basket-for-basket in the third period and fell short by five (17-12) in the final period.

Rochelle Hawkes and Lynette Cain also scored in two figures for the winners. Hawkes tossed in 13 points while Cain finished with 12, six of those coming in the closing minutes of the game when the Eagles began to flounder. Carmita Brown added 10.

In nonconference competition last week, Romulus fell to Highland Park 65-42 as unstoppable Tracey Joyner came up with 30 points including three 3-pointers.

The Eagles managed to stay with the Polar

Bears the first half. They trailed by four (12-8) after one and grabbed a 22-21 lead at intermission.

But Joyner exploded for 25 of her 30 points in the second half that opened the way to a 20-12 advantage in the third. They buried their nonleague rival with a 24-8 final period.

Molenda had 13 and Hawkes finished with 10 for the Eagles who missed eight of nine at the free throw line in the final period.

In their rematch with Essex, Ont., Romulus won a lopsided 62-25 victory over their visitors from Canada.

With Cullen substituting freely after the Eagles built up an 18-6 first period lead, Romulus never looked back. They led 31-13 at the end of the first half, then outscored their rivals 15-10 and 16-2 for the last two periods.

Romulus displayed a balanced attack with four players in double figures. Brown had 10, while Cain, Hawkes, and Angie Hopewell each contributed 10 points.

New Boston Huron's cross country team wrapped up a successful season with a 6-1 conference record and a second place finish in the league that bears its name. Former Belleville runner stars for Roscommon High Belleville's loss is Roscommon High's gain. Valentine Stumpf, a 16-year-old sophomore who a year ago was the leader of the Tiger cross country pack, is rewriting the record books at Roscommon.

"If she had been in our lineup this year," said Belleville High Coach Sam Vicchy, "there's no telling what we could have done. She's a good one. And we are happy for her success."

Stumpf has already left her mark on Roscommon cross country history. She shattered a 10-year-old school record last month for the three-mile run. The old mark of 20.13, established by Monica Gordon, fell to Stumpf after she toured the distance in a superb 19:53.0.

"I expect her to be one of the top finishers in the state," said Roscommon Coach Don Selon, who is obviously pleased with the transplanted Belleville High athlete.

As a freshman at Belleville High, Stumpf left an indelible mark in cross country and in track. In 1988, carrying the Tiger banner into the state finals, she finished eighth in Michigan.

Before Valentine Stumpf finishes her prep career, no one is doubting that she will be the No. 1 high school runner in the state.

Jeremy Sullivan, who had a 19:04 run.

Robichaud's slo-mo machine, made up of Francis Curto (20:22), Rodney Smith (20:27), Robbie Patrick (20:28) and Phil Tachar (20:32) swept 14th through 17th places, respectively.

Hadley and his crew started the season with four straight nonleague dual meet losses before putting together a string of 10 consecutive SAC wins.

Although Robichaud didn't field a women's cross country team this season, the Bulldogs did have one of the outstanding runners in the league in Rita Harden.

Harden placed second overall to Highland Park's Darlene Thornton, who won the gold medal with a 23:58 finish. Harden's second-place time was posted as 25:14.

Hadley completed his 15th season as the Bulldogs' head cross country coach. He said this season's team was "one that was enjoyable to work with."

"They worked together, and this group was one of the best I have ever coached," Hadley said, who added that he is looking forward to the 1990 campaign, "because most of these kids are underclassmen and will be returning to our lineup."

Glenn knocks off Fordson, 20-7

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

John Glenn High School defensive back Tommy Luxton stood in the back of the end zone with his hands raised in the air. The 5-foot-10-inch senior had just broken up an apparent touchdown pass by the Fordson Tractors.

It was just the first "big play" the Rockets would turn in on this chilly Saturday afternoon in Dearborn. Glenn quarterback Eric Stover fired two touchdown passes, and the Rockets took advantage of several Fordson mistakes to lead the Lakes Division champions to a 20-7 pre-regional victory.

Another offside on the Tractors gave Glenn a first-and-five at the 21-yard line. Shannon Layne picked up four yards and earned a first down on a one-yard run up the middle.

Layne was stopped at the line of scrimmage on the next play, and Glenn went back to the air on second down. Stover stood in the pocket and fired a low pass to wide receiver Mark Wetmore, who slid along the ground in the end zone and came up with the ball.

Wes Taylor kicked the extra point, and with 6:42 left in the second quarter, Glenn led 7-0.

The momentum appeared to change, when a face-masking penalty against Glenn, gave Fordson excellent field position. The Tractors made a fourth-down-and-one play at the Rockets' 25-yard line.

One play later, Ed Ortiz broke several tackles and dove into the Glenn end zone to tie the game for the Tractors with 2:38 left in the second quarter.

The Rockets failed to move the ball, and the two teams were deadlocked at halftime, 7-7.

The Rockets took over in the third quarter, when all-conference linebacker Mark Johnston recovered a fumble at the Fordson 45-yard line.

Glenn appeared to give the ball right back, but an interception was nullified when a personal foul was called on Glenn and a personal foul was called on Fordson. The two penalties cancelled the play.

Stover then fired a pass across the middle and David Ryan made a leaping catch between two defenders. The Stover-Ryan connection has been the key all season for the Rockets.

The play gave Glenn a first down at the 12-yard line. Facing a third-and-four from the six-yard line, Stover hit Woody on a slant pattern and the Rockets took the lead again with 6:42 left in the quarter.

The Glenn defense again did the job, forcing Fordson to punt. The snap sailed over the head of the Fordson punter, who made a great play to retrieve the ball and get the kick off.

But the Rockets had great field position at the Fordson 45-yard line. Stover hit Wetmore for 15 yards, but the drive stalled at the 23-yard line.

Taylor, who has given the Rockets one of the best kicking games in the state, hit a 41-yard field goal with 2:44 left. The Rockets were in command 17-7.

Again, the defense held and the Tractors had to kick the ball back to the Rockets.

Following a 15-yard pass from Stover to Ryan, Layne knocked off runs of 14, 5 and 5 yards to put the Rockets in field goal range.

Taylor did the rest, as he drilled a 27-yard field goal.

The Fordson comeback never happened as Luxton intercepted two passes in the final quarter, and with 1:25 left in the game, the Glenn fans started celebrating.

Stover completed 13 of 21 passes for 202 yards and two touchdowns. Ryan caught seven passes for 87 yards.

cess of his team this year, Cooper answered in the affirmative.

"We didn't have the bodies this year," Cooper said, "and that always will cause a team problems. However, these kids who swam for us this year deserve a lot of applause. They worked hard and put in their time to help preserve an outstanding tradition here at Belleville."

At the beginning of the 1989-

90 school year, after the voters rejected a millage increase, the Van Buren School Board initiated a pay-to-play policy to defray the costs of the district's varsity athletic program. If Proposal A - a proposal that would raise the state's sales tax from 4 to 4 1/2 cents and earmark the $400 million new dollars to education - is approved Tuesday by the voters, the pay-to-play policy may be rescinded, according to board officials.

The school board will schedule a millage hike request for December, if Proposal A is defeated, they said.

HOUSEHOLD BUDGET

Setting financial limits
may help you reach goals

By DANIEL CALABRESE

Do you have the ability to manage your money? Many people do not, and most would welcome some advice from an individual who manages money professionally.

Dennis Wallot, a certified financial planner who operates Money Concepts of Westland, said many people have problems with managing their personal financial affairs.

"You have to look at it like Ford Motor Co.," Wallot said. "Look at yourself as You, Inc."

Many people cannot manage their money effectively because they do not have the determination to do so, Wallot said.

The ability to establish a budget and stick to it begins by setting goals, he said, including short-, medium- and long-term goals.

But the goals must be realistic, he added, because people often forget about what they are doing with their resources.

"They don't have a sense of where their money is going," he said.

One of the most common problems, according to Wallot, is that people do not have checking accounts, or do not sufficiently use their checking accounts when they have them.

"They're afraid of it," he said. "They don't know how to do it."

Those who use cash, either because they are intimidated by checking accounts or because they feel strange about using checks, often find that they spent more money than they needed to. One reason, Wallot said, is that people do not need to take large bills out of the bank for purchases that will leave change — change that will quickly be spent.

"It's a demonstrated fact that using a checking account is more economical," Wallot said. "And (using cash) doesn't make very good tax records."

You have to look at it like Ford Motor Co., look at yourself as You, Inc.

When an individual establishes a budget, Wallot said, they often forget about items that will later cost them money and put a wrench in their plans.

"They forget about emergencies that are going to happen on the road — the two bald tires on their car," Wallot said. "As that emergency comes up, people are in tears, saying, 'Where am I going to get the money from?'"

Wallot offered several suggestions to deal with such emergencies. One method is to budget $100 each month for unexpected expenditures.

The other, he said, is to set up two separate savings accounts, which people can use to serve as a cushion in case of an emergency.

Credit cards can be another danger, according to Wallot. While he acknowledged that it is difficult to function in modern society without one, Wallot said people should be very careful not to fall into the traps that credit cards can set.

"What's the best way you can get 12 to 18 percent on your money? Don't pay it to a credit card company," he said.

If credit cards are regularly paid off, he said, they are not as bad because interest charges do not accumulate. But many people who do pay off their cards are lured by some of the "rewards" credit card companies offer, such as increasing of credit limits.

"When you pay them off monthly, put a cap on the spending," Wallot said. ■

TAX CONFUSION

New laws make finding tax breaks slightly more challenging

By DANIEL CALABRESE

With the ever-changing tax laws of the United States, some will say you need a scorecard to keep track of them all.

Dennis Wallot, owner and president of Money Concepts in Westland, offers tax advice from the perspective of a certified financial planner.

Tax deductions are becoming less available than they once were, he said, but smart money managers can still find ways to make tax advantages materialize.

The best purchase from a tax standpoint is a new home, Wallot said. Home Equity Loans are still deductible up to the purchase price of a house.

Clipping coupons is easy way to save money

Armed with boxes crammed with coupons and rebate slips, the Romulus Coupon Club members meet monthly for trade and friendly conversation.

The club consists of a small group of Romulus women with one thing in common — they enjoy the challenge of saving money. After years of clipping coupons, these women cannot imagine going to the store without them.

"It doesn't make sense not to use coupons," said member Gloria Chandler. "They're right in your newspaper. Give a little time and you can save a lot of money. I know I saved $1,000 one year."

Chandler added that many grocery stores offer double and even triple savings on retail coupons.

"In this very expensive age, it's such an ideal and easy way to save money."

For those willing to dedicate a little more time and effort, the next step to saving money is using rebate slips. Rebates allow shoppers to receive money back, or a special gift, after purchasing a certain product. Using this method, one member has saved enough money to purchase new carpeting, a used car and a Las Vegas vacation. Another member funded her trip to Hawaii with rebate savings.

Chandler warned using rebates requires strict attention to instructions. Companies usually require some type of proof of purchase ranging from UPC codes to net weight statements.

Working as a group is helpful because friends can save items for each other, Chandler added.

After the club members sort through each other's coupons and rebate slips during meetings, they leave their extras in a large box. The coupons are left at the Romulus library, where the meetings are staged. Visitors are encouraged to help themselves. ■

FASHION FINDS

Selecting quality clothes at a bargain price requires scrutiny

By FLORENCE MEEKS

Most of us are content when the item that tempted us on the hanger looks just as good when we try it on.

However, most tailors would warn us there is more to selecting quality clothing than a good fit. Before choosing any garment, a thorough inspection is wise.

Fred Musarreh is the owner of Thimble Wiz Tailor Shop in Westland. He suggested three main indicators of quality - straight seams, well-fastened buttons and secure lining. These factors apply to men's and women's clothing.

"People have to check inside and out," Musarreh added.

A warning for bargain hunters - do not abandon these quality checks for a less expensive price tag. Tailor bills or replacements may be far more expensive than selecting a good product the first time.

Choosing fabrics is another important factor, according to Polly Swigkrt, owner of Bower Harold Cleaners & Laundry in Wayne. She suggests checking labels to determine what kind of care a potential purchase requires.

"Rayon is hard to care for. It picks up water spots easily. Once they're there you can't get them out," she said.

Swigkrt said linen also requires special care.

Jean Neuhardt, manager of JS Tailoring and Alterations in Plymouth, agrees fabric is an important consideration. Natural fibers are quite durable, she said, and are good picks. Determining quality fabric is really an acquired skill, she added.

"If you're not familiar with it, you may have to rely on someone else.

Finding quality fashions at reasonable prices requires careful checking of seams and workmanship.

Usually a reputable clothier will steer you toward the best choice for you," Neuhardt said.

To determine quality construction, she added, check linings or interfacing, stitching and the weight of shoulder pads. Again, making quality clothing choices is a skill that requires practice, she said. ■

Tax

Many of those who make investments in Individual Retirement Accounts can still deduct their IRAs, he said, but that deduction is not available for those who earn more than $50,000 per year and are covered by pension plans.

Tax credits are also often available on child-care expenses, he said.

In addition, Wallot said there are many potential tax credits that are less well-known to the general public. For example, an investment in rehabilitating a building more than 50 years old can result in a federal tax credit.

Those who rent to low-income earners can also receive credits from the federal government, he said.

"If you can put anything in your adjusted gross income section, or if you can put anything in the credits section, you're going to save money," Wallot said.

But much of the news is not good on the tax front.

According to Wallot, real estate and interest on homes are the only Schedule A tax deductions remaining.

Deductions for consumer interest, under which many people have placed their automobile loans over the years, are being phased out.

Currently, consumer interest is deductible only up to 20 percent. That will fall to 10 percent in 1990, and finally to zero in 1991.

In addition, he said, most people are no longer eligible to deduct medical or miscellaneous costs. Medical costs can only be deducted if they total at least 7 percent of an individual's gross income, while miscellaneous write-offs must total 2 percent of gross income.

For most people, he said, those totals will never be attained.

But the smart purchaser can still find ways to make the tax code work for him, Wallot said. It might simply take more digging than in the past. ■
